About the Program

The Jenny Craig program was founded more than 15 years ago and has 800 centers nationwide. It offers frozen or pre-packaged prepared meals to help with portion management and calorie control. This program offers weekly one-on-one nutritional and motivational counseling.

It was developed by registered dietitians and psychologists and tries to focus on lifestyle changes. Another option available is Jenny Direct, an at-home personalized weight-loss program. Materials are delivered to your home, and weekly support consultations are delivered over the phone.

How the Program Works

A typical Jenny Craig program consists of three meals and three snacks per day, which is calorie-controlled based on your height and weight. The breakdown of the diet is about 60 percent carbohydrate, 20 percent from protein and fats. You are required to purchase foods (main dishes) from Jenny Craig for the first phase, which is defined as the first half of your total weight-loss goal. You can work with your diet counselor to incorporate other food groups, such as fruits, vegetables, dairy and grains to your meals. After the initial phase, you can transition to grocery foods, however, you are required to keep a food diary and work with the diet counselors on food choices.

What's the Consensus?

Overall, the Jenny Craig diet is a well balanced reduced calorie diet in which you can expect to lose about 1-2 pounds per week.

About the Program

Nutri/System was founded more than 30 years ago, also offering prepackaged meals and dietary counseling. More recently it has crossed into an almost exclusively online weight-loss program, complete with online counseling and menu planning.

Nutri/System’s most popular and latest nourishment program features meal plans based on low glycemic-index (GI) foods, which are primarily low sugar, low-fat, high fiber and high protein foods. The claim with low GI foods is to “help keep your blood sugar levels stable and your metabolism burning strong, so you can burn more fat.”

How the Program Works

Membership in the online weight-loss community is free-of-charge. Newcomers are assigned to a personal weight-loss counselor, who will track their progress and give advice as long as they follow the program. New members also receive a menu plan, a catalog of products, a food diary, a weight chart, an online weekly newsletter and a few other goodies to get them started.

Other services include online bulletin boards, chat room support groups and a free diet analysis. You can and are encouraged to purchase prepackaged entrées and snacks, however it is not mandatory. However, the menu plans incorporate the pre-packaged foods, so meal planning is difficult if you do not purchase the products.

The Nutri/System plan encourages three meals and two snacks per day. They offer more than 100 prepackaged foods to choose from; you can plan your own meals, or you can sign up for the 28-day meal package. As with others, you have to purchase additional fruits, vegetables and dairy products.

What's the Consensus?

This diet plan, if proper additional fruits, vegetables and dairy products are added, can also be well-balanced and calorie-controlled. Following these diet and exercise recommendations should result in about a 1-2 pound per week weight-loss. The program offers free chat rooms and online support which proves to be effective for many people.

One concern is the “bad” carb claim with high GI foods is not exactly a true claim. GI scores are based on single foods, i.e. if you eat them one at a time. So in real life, when you are eating a meal, combining foods and cooking foods affects overall GI score or value. Actually, eating a well balanced meal will in essence lower the GI score of a high glycemic food.

Another concern is that the pre planned, packaged meals do not teach good nutrition, as no thought is involved, thus leading to lack of learning the essentials to keep the weight off.

The final concern is the cost of the food, following the meal plan costs about $60 dollars per week which does not include the fruits, vegetables and dairy products that must be purchased in addition to the prepackaged foods.
About the Program
Weight Watchers was founded in the 1960’s and offers weight-loss guidance and support. The plan emphasizes a well-balanced diet and encourages lifestyle changes and exercise.

Weight Watchers has come up with multiple plans for dieters, from which they can pick the one that fits their lifestyle more appropriately.

How the Program Works
The flex plan is based on the point system. All food is assigned a certain number of points according to calories, fat and fiber contents. Dieters are assigned a certain number of points to consume in a day based on their body weight and the number of pounds they want to lose. This system teaches that all food can potentially be incorporated into a healthy eating plan as long as the daily point values are not exceeded.

Dieters learn to balance their food choices; they can also trade physical activity for more points. Another option is the Core Plan® that focuses on healthy foods (whole grains, fruits, vegetables and low-fat protein foods) without the need for tracking points.

Weight Watchers offers and encourages a lot of support, through weekly meetings (private, online or group) and weigh-ins, to give dieters encouragement, help, suggestions and strategies.

No foods are forbidden and no foods are required for purchase. Most foods, even restaurant foods, already have points assigned to them which makes keeping track much easier than needing to figure them out on your own.

About the Program
Slim-Fast has been around for more than 25 years and can offer quick weight-loss by substituting typical high calorie meals with a calorie controlled, sweet-tasting fortified meal replacement shake or bar.

The program offers online support with weight, diet and exercise charting, chat rooms with online buddies, chat sessions with registered dietitians, a weekly newsletter, exercise programs and meal planning. Slim-Fast now offers low-carb, optima, easy to digest, high protein and original products.

How the Program Works
The diet plan is centered around two Slim-Fast meal replacements. One meal consists of a Meal-on-the-Go in a can or bar and the other is a Slim-Fast Meal-on-the-Go combined with 200 calories of your favorite healthy foods. The third meal is a “sensible meal” of about 500 calories, with 1/2 of your plate filled with veggies, 1/4 with lean protein (such as chicken without the skin), 1/4 with starch, a salad on the side and fruit for dessert. A snack of 120 calories is offered as well throughout the day. Fruits and vegetables (about 3-5 servings) are encouraged in addition to the meals and snack.

As the dieter approaches their weight maintenance phase, they can incorporate two regular “sensible meals” per day, however, little instruction is given to wean from the products and therefore dieters are expected to rely on Slim-Fast products indefinitely for weight maintenance.
What’s the Consensus?
The cost of the shakes are about $1.40 each and the meal replacement bars are about $1 each. The main concerns are that dieters are not taught about nutrition basics and realistically are not going to include the Slim-Fast meal replacements forever. Therefore, weight regain may be inevitable. Another concern is the recommended calorie level may be too low for some dieters.

Overall, if followed correctly, total calories do not go below 1,200 per day, and the plan does encourage additional fruits and vegetables leading to more balance than traditional liquid diets.

Meal replacement diets such as Slim-Fast are appealing because of their simplicity and convenience. This could be an option for those dieters who have plateaued in weight-loss or those who need a jump start.

Overall, the Curves diet and fitness plan will work because the number of calories consumed in the Phase 1 and 2 stages are significantly less than that of which you are burning, thus leading to weight-loss. However, the claim to reset your metabolism is not necessarily an accurate one.

In order to maintain weight while consuming 2,500 calories per day, you must be burning 2,500 calories per day. Because the program has a strong exercise and muscle building component, you can potentially burn 2,500 calories per day. Alternating between the different nutrient deficient phases according to your weight fluctuations is not considered a solution for achieving and maintaining a weight-loss.

Also, dieters are not taught about good nutrition – they are merely following a diet. My suggestion would be to exercise by all means, but try another diet to follow.

About the Program
The Curves diet is through the Curves Weight-Loss and Fitness Program, a franchise of health clubs for women that provides a 30-minute workout including resistance training, aerobics and stretching. The program includes a meal plan, workout, online support and supplement regimen. The claim of following the Curves diet and fitness program will help you slim down and tone your body while resetting your metabolism at a faster calorie-burning rate.

How the Program Works
The Curves diet plan consists of three phases. Each phase consists of six small meals per day.

- Phase 1 lasts one or two weeks and allows no more than 20 grams of carbohydrates a day.
- During Phase 2, certain fruits and vegetables and some whole grains are allowed.
- Once you reach your desired weight, you progress to Phase 3 and no longer follow specific meal plans.

To reset your metabolism once you reach your weight goal, you are instructed to increase your calorie intake to about 2,500 per day. Within a day or two, you will probably gain about 3 pounds. At this point, you go back to Phase 1 diet for one to two days to “burn off the fat.” When you lose weight again, you return to Phase 3.

About the Program
The Atkins Diet is a high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet devised by Dr. Robert Atkins. The theory behind the diet is when you cut out carbs, your body burns fat stores to provide energy. As you burn more calories when your body burns fat compared with carbohydrate, you will lose weight.

Another aspect of the theory is by cutting out carbs, blood sugar levels remain more stable throughout the day, which is thought to prevent overeating.

How the Program Works
There are four phases to the Atkins diet. The initial phase, Induction, limits your intake of total carbohydrates to 20g a day (the recommendation for healthy eating is 250g a day).

The next phase is the Ongoing Weight-loss phase, which allows you to slightly increase your carb intake by 5g daily for a week at a time until you find your Critical Carbohydrate Level for Losing...
Weight. This is the maximum amount of carbohydrate you can eat each day to lose between 1 and 3 lbs a week. For some people, this may only be 25g carbohydrate, for others it might be 50g.

The third phase, Pre-maintenance, is when you have just 5-10 lb left to lose. During this phase, you increase your carb intake by 10g each day for a week at a time. The idea is to slow down your weight-loss to no more than 1 lb per week.

The final stage, Lifetime Maintenance, aims to help you maintain your weight by limiting carbs to less than 90g a day.

What’s the Consensus?

Although people can lose considerable amounts of weight in a short period of time following this diet plan, most people are unable to follow it for the long-term because it restricts a vast amount of food groups. Most people tend to regain weight quickly when they are no longer able to stay on the Maintenance phase, which is essentially, low carbohydrates for life.

Initial concerns of following this diet plan are side effects such as bad breath, weakness, tiredness, insomnia, nausea and dizziness. Constipation often occurs because of the avoidance of high-fiber foods such as fruits, vegetables and whole grains. Long-term side effects include increasing risk of heart disease, some types of cancer and nutritional deficiencies because of following an unbalanced diet that is high in fat, particularly saturated fats, which are found in meats and cheeses.

Finally, as mentioned with previous diets reviewed, eliminating food groups or macronutrients from your diet is not considered a solution for achieving and maintaining weight-loss. The bottom line is for it to be a lifelong behavioral change; dieters should learn about good nutrition and its application to daily life instead of just following the diet.

Conclusion

If you are in the market for a diet, you are faced with hundreds of choices, many with claims that sound like exactly what you need. It is important that when you are choosing a diet to help you reach your weight-loss goals, you evaluate them based on one that will work for you, your lifestyle and will help you achieve your goals.

About the Authors:

Christopher D. Still, DO, FACP, FACN, has been studying developments in nutrition support and obesity for nearly a decade. Dr. Still’s interest in weight-loss comes from his personal experiences with obesity. Dr. Still once weighed 365 pounds, and losing the weight was a life and career changing experience. Dr. Still is certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine, the American Board of Nutrition and the American College of Nutrition, among others. He is also a member of the OAC National Board of Directors.

Stephanie F. Yeager, RD, LDN, has been with the Center for Nutrition and Weight Management at Geisinger Health System since 2002. She completed her Bachelor’s in Nutritional Sciences and Exercise Physiology at Penn State University in 2002 and her Dietetic Internship at Geisinger Medical Center in 2004.
Yes! I would like to join the OAC’s efforts.

I would like to join as a/an:

- Patient/Family Member: $20
- Professional Member: $50
- Physician Member: $100
- Surgeon Member: $150
- Institutional Member: $500 (Surgery centers, doctors’ offices, weight-loss centers, etc.)
- OAC Chairman’s Council: $1,000 and up

Name: ____________________________

Company: __________________________

Address: __________________________

City: _______ State: _______ Zip: _______

Phone: __________________________ Email: __________________________

Payment Information

Enclosed is my check (payable to the OAC) for $ __________.

Please charge my credit card for my membership fee:

- Discover®
- MasterCard®
- Visa®
- Amex®

Credit Card Number: __________________________

Expiration Date: _______ Billing Zip Code: _______

Mail to: OAC
4511 North Himes Ave., Ste. 250
Tampa, FL 33614

Or Fax to: (813) 873-7838

Not ready to join the OAC as a paid member?

You can become a “Friend of the OAC” and still have your voice be heard. When joining the OAC in this category, you can get involved in our efforts while receiving electronic benefits. There is no charge to become a “Friend of the OAC.” To sign-up, check the box below and complete the application.

Sign me up as a “Friend of the OAC”